

ABSTRACT

An infrared ray irradiation apparatus for a night vision system which is operated easily and selectively in a visible and infrared ray irradiation mode and an infrared ray irradiation mode, and irradiates infrared rays emitted from a lamp
5 toward an area in front of a car by means of one transmission step (by a tube) and one reflection step (by a reflector), thus irradiating the infrared rays without deterioration in brightness.